The image fragments searched for predicting IT neural responses recorded from the site which did not show the significant variations ($p > 10^{-6}$) across the facial view changes.